AFRICAN ICT SECURITY GLOBAL CONFERENCE

Diminishing Risks for Global Organizations

In a global landscape where external and internal intrusions into corporate systems are a given, IT directors must evaluate risk. High risk is at the forefront of actual hacking, denial of service, and identity-theft attacks that occur for ten-of-thousands of private, public, non-profit, government companies and agencies. The question remains, "How does one diminish risk to prevent my company from being exposed to malicious attacks?" Performing penetration testing, vulnerability assessments, periodic audit, compliance checks, policy and procedures evaluation and drafting, and being open-minded on implementing security measures will surely help. Come join us at the conference for details.
